Implants

from £2000

A dental implant is a titanium metal rod which is placed into the jawbone. It is used to support one or more false teeth. Implants are a well-established, tried-and-tested treatment. Over 95 per cent of modern implants should last for many years with the right care.

Implant retained dentures

Titanium implants act like roots of teeth and attach to the denture. This helps to stabilise and improve denture retention. This is a very cost effective treatment for replacing all your upper and lower missing teeth and allowing you to chew all sorts of foods that you may not have had in years.

Placement of two to four dental implants and a full upper/lower denture:

from £4000

For a more superior retention and stability consider four dental implants, a supporting bar and a full upper/lower denture:

from £7500

Lower denture without any support becomes ill-fitting as the bone resorbs, or melts away.

Implant-retained denture provides comfort and stability.

Implant bar-supported denture provides additional stability.

What is gum disease?

Gum disease is swelling, soreness or infection of the tissues supporting the teeth. There are two main forms of gum disease: gingivitis and periodontal disease.

What is gingivitis?

Gingivitis means inflammation of the gums caused by plaque bacteria. This is when the gums around the teeth become very red and swollen. Often the swollen gums bleed when they are brushed during cleaning.

What is periodontal disease?

Long-standing gingivitis can turn into periodontal disease. There are a number of types of periodontal disease and they all affect the tissues supporting the teeth. As the disease gets worse the bone anchoring the teeth in the jaw is lost, making the teeth loose. If this is not treated, the teeth may eventually fall out. In fact, more teeth are lost through periodontal disease than through tooth decay.
